BRING THE VALUE OF TECHNOLOGY INTO YOUR OFFICE OPERATIONS

Oil producers are well aware of the value technology brings to their field operations. Whether monitoring flow, controlling waste, ensuring safety or reducing theft, state-of-the-art technology is no stranger to those running successful field operations. But, what about operations in the office? Time and money invested in manual handling of data (such as field tickets, run tickets, check stubs and invoicing), susceptibility to errors, insufficient security of sensitive data, reporting and analytics challenges, fraud risk, and reconciliation and compliance complexity, could all have a material effect on your business. Oildex helps you securely distribute, access and manage financial data faster, with less cost and higher accuracy while realizing more profitable and reliable business relations.
